Contents

Page 4 Editor’s Welcome
Page 5 IPA in Review - Hiromi Mitsuya
Page 11 IPA Psychic of the Year Awards Meet the 2016 Winners
Page 18 Elisabeth Jensen Explores Prophecy and Alchemy In Ancient Egypt and Modern Times
Page 20 Angels, Goosebumps and Kawena A Real-Life Encounter
Page 27 Who gets the most from a psychic reading? Find out with Deniz Batuk
Page 28 Gifts from the Gifted Enter our Monthly Prize Draws

Page 6 Feel Your Way to Empowerment
Suzy Cherub: Feeling others’ energy is an empathic gift. Empaths are tuned in to the invisible, so empathic qualities are magnificent magical gifts.

Page 9 Prediction and Speculation
Narelle Scurr: Just about anything you say about the future is speculation because no one knows what will happen — or do they?

Page 14 Need Validation? Try Meditation!
Katy-K: I wanted evidence that the information I was receiving was from outside of myself and I asked my guides to prove themselves.

Page 30 Synchronising with a Past Life
Simon Turnbull: Reincarnation makes sense to me as it appears unlikely we could amass the kind of wisdom some of us possess in one lifetime.

BONUS DIGITAL CONTENT
PAGES 43 to 48
Palmistry Loops: How to read palms with Kalyi Amoto
Life at the Crossroads: Embracing the future with Victoria Cochrane
Design by Intent: A healthy start with Bryan Johnston
Praying for Change with Linet Amalie
The International Tarot Foundation’s CARTA AWARDS
Ego a Dirty Word? A matter of ethics with Suzanne Newnham

Your Psychic Guide to 2017
Page 32 Your Year by the Stars
Astrology by Kelli Fox
Page 38 Julie Jara’s Monthly Impressions and Techniques
Page 40 2017 is your Number One Numerology by Robin Stein
Page 41 Tomorrow’s News Today Our Top Predictions
Page 42 The Wheel of 2017 Turn it in Your Favour

Do It Yourself Psychic Know-How
Page 21 Make Your Psychic Abilities Work for You!
Francis Bevan: The more aware you are of your intuition and sense of self, the more your psychic abilities will work for you.

Page 22 Get Activated with Anna Comerford and the Seven Psychic Clairs

Page 24 Working with Sacred Signs
Tracey Nichols: Whenever you are confused, emotionally tested, full of fear and doubt, try working with Spirit to receive sacred signs.
Like fingerprints, loops are skin ridges and never change their patterns throughout our lives.

Loop of Rajah (A)

This loop lies between the Jupiter and Saturn fingers. It is supposed to bring power and status. People with this loop are quite often good-looking, successful and arrogant. It is said to mean royal blood or descent from a leader.

Loop of Hard Work/Serious Intent (B)

This loop is found between the Saturn and Apollo fingers. It indicates a person who takes things seriously, makes an effort to read, learn and understand, and is a hard worker.

Loop of Humour (D)

Situated between the Apollo and Mercury fingers, this loop shows a person has a sense of humour and can see the funny side of life. They often have a love of words, writing and communicating. If the centre of the loop forms a whorl, it may mean talent for foreign languages.

Loop of Style (C)

This loop is also found between the Apollo and Mercury fingers, but instead of lying vertically it lies on an angle. It used to be called the Loop of Vanity, but now modern palmists have renamed it the Loop of Style. People with this loop have a good eye for design, colour and form. A sense of aesthetics is very important to them; they need to decorate their living space in their own style and it would distress them to live in unpleasant-looking surroundings. They will often dress in an original way, not following fashion. Quite often, people with this loop take a great deal of care over their personal appearance, which might be why it was called the Loop of Vanity by older palmistry schools.

Loop of Memory (E)

This loop is found near the end of the Head Line. People who have this loop are said to possess a good memory. They have the ability to keep in contact with people from their past to help them in business and on a social level.

Loop of Imagination (F)

The Loop of Imagination comes off the percussion edge of the hand into the Mount of Luna. Subjects with this loop are said to have imagination and intuition that seems to be used more purposefully if it's closer to the Mount of Mars (i.e. closer to the little finger rather than the wrist). A whorl on this mount indicates strong psychic gifts. Loops in the area of Luna also indicate a love of nature and outdoor pursuits.

Kalyi Amoto is a palmist who combines channellings from spirit guides, past-life information, mediumship and Lenormand Oracle cards in her readings. She teaches palmistry and psychic development courses through her School of Psychic and Spiritual Knowledge. For more information visit www.psychicspiritualschool.com
Are you at a crossroad point in your life right now? The arrival at a crossroads can be messy. A relationship might be in tatters, your world could be in a general state of upheaval or the past may have reared its head forcing you to face people, memories or situations you thought were behind you. Whatever brings us to a crossroads can be confusing, upsetting and disorientating. Some people come to me feeling so demoralised they feel like giving up.

Being at a crossroads generally means we need to be careful about the decisions we make as they will determine the direction our life will take from here. To move forward into our soul’s higher purpose, we must first detach from the past and shed anything, or anyone, that is no longer serving us. This is not so straightforward. It is not easy to let go of something or someone we love, even if we know they are draining or even breaking us. However, the energies of domestic violence, hatred, jealousy, possessiveness and self-centredness cannot remain in our lives (whether it comes from within ourselves or from another) if we are to move into a state of oneness, peace and harmony and fulfil our highest destiny.

As confronting as a crossroads event is, it can actually be a blessing. It can be an opportunity to embrace the changes required to take charge of the next chapter of your life. If you feel out of control, take control! If someone has taken away your power, take it back! Be completely honest with yourself. Lay everything on the table and ask yourself what you really want? Where are you heading? Where would you like to be in five years? Do you love or even like yourself? What are you not facing up to?

When we are at a crossroads, it is time to be brave and face our fears, to accept the challenge, embrace the need for change and let go of anything that is holding us back. This can be scary, confronting and overwhelming, but it is also extremely liberating!

Letting go means forgiving the people who have hurt you. You may have felt justified in holding onto hatred, anger or resentment, but the only person these feelings hurt is yourself. The past is gone and cannot be changed, but you are in the driver’s seat of your future. What you create is totally up to the thoughts you think and the decisions you make. Angry, negative thoughts create actions with destructive consequences, whether they be on a physical, emotional, mental or spiritual level. Changing your thoughts in a positive way will immediately change your reality, because the words you speak, the decisions you make and the actions you take will have a higher vibration and a much friendlier impact on the world around you. Forgiveness releases the dark, negative emotions and lets the light in!

If you are at a crossroads, you are there for good reason. As challenging as it may be, it is your doorway to a happier future. Take your time to reflect on why you are there and choose wisely! You don’t want to miss this chance to change your life for the better!

Victoria Cochrane is an author, Theta® Healing practitioner, Reiki Master, psychic channel and author living on the North-West coast of Tasmania. She can be contacted through her website at www.victoriacochrane.com.
Praying for Change

By Linet Amalie

My type of prayer could be totally different to yours depending on the context and how you were taught to pray. Many don’t realise there is more than one way to pray, and some others cannot separate prayer from religion. However, having positive intentions for someone and asking for or sending them healing or blessings is a type of prayer. Giving heartfelt thanks for what you have received is another.

Prayer is linked to love and the desire for something better, something more or something blessed. A prayer for someone else is an earnest connection between you and another, and it is the connection that is important. Regardless of religion or faith, sending love or well wishes to someone is a powerful prayer that comes from within your soul.

Have you seen water crystals changing shape when positive thoughts are directed to them? Our bodies are largely made up of fluid, so it is logical that directing love to others has the capacity to create a positive transformation—and even a subtle change can trigger greater things.

Overall, by human nature, we care for our fellow beings. This is evident by days of prayer planned to help others. It doesn’t matter what religion or faith you belong to. If you can send out positive thoughts, feelings and healing to others, you have the power to change another being’s life at a subconscious level.

Visit Linet Amalie at www.thehealingcentre.com.au
Robin Stein
Recipient of
The Hall of Fame Award
2012

Psychic Medium,
Tarot Readings, Numerologist
Writer, Teacher, Speaker
Lectures & Demonstrations.

Specialising in assisting infertile women to conceive naturally with a 95% success rate.

Phone Robin on 0411 28 88 09. New website & Online shop: www.robinstein.com.au

SUZY CHERUB

PSYCHIC OF THE YEAR
AUSTRALIA 2014

Psychic Medium Healer Visionary

Following serious illness and near death experiences, Suzy Cherub realised her life mission is to guide and heal others. Suzy has developed her natural mediumship over a lifetime and runs a professional full-time psychic healing practice in Canberra ACT. Most of her clients are repeat and referral.

Suzy utilises psychic tools but does not rely on these, as her ability is powerful enough on its own.

Angelic Reiki Master Teacher • NLP Practitioner
Advanced Theta Healer • Certified Angel Intuitive
Classes & Workshops • Live Shows • Spirit Coaching

Private psychic consultations from Suzy’s home studio in Canberra, ACT.
Phone and Skype readings available by appointment.
Connect with Suzy on Facebook.

Book online at www.psychicsuzy.com

We are The Lighthouse. We shine light across the sea and can see far across the sea of time. Our clients are like ships journeying on the sea of life. It is sometimes stormy and they cannot see through the fog. I guide my clients when they get confused and are not sure of which way to go. We shine the light of knowledge so they can steer away from the storms to calmer waters. I hold the light high so others can see through the mists and navigate into the future. I cannot steer their ship for them, but I can light their way.

– Joy Atkinson
2016 Psychic Hall of Fame Recipient
The Lighthouse Spiritual Centre, Sydney
www.ghostlovers.com.au
Ego is not a dirty word, or is it?

by Suzanne Newnham

The theatre is set, lights in the auditorium dim. A grand entrance is made. The charismatic, out-going personality, advantageous for the stage, becomes the applause with a huge smile. The flamboyance settles as the medium prepares to channel spirit. As they become the conduit for information and energies, their ego disappears. Likewise, a psychic in a market place or a private reading space becomes a messenger devoid of self. Once a reading starts, all ego and personal investment into that session is put on hold. It is the message not the messenger that is important.

To borrow the title of a classic Australian song of the 1970s, Ego is not a dirty word. But things can get muddy if the influence of one’s ego is detrimental to someone else. From an intuitive friend to a professional reader, it’s the message that is important. Ego plays no part in a reading.

There are many branches of psychic and spiritual communication, as well as types of ability, training and various levels of connection. In this article, I use ‘psychic’ when referring to a person with an ability to connect and communicate beyond the earthly realm with or without the aid of divinatory tools.

Ego and Confidence

Ego means ‘i’ in Latin. It is basically about self. Ego motivates. It pushes and focuses. It is a great attribute, unless it operates as self-interest to the exclusion of another’s wellbeing. Confidence is having faith in your ability. A psychic needs confidence to be able to delve into the unknown and convey information that might have a far-reaching impact to the recipient. Everyday insecurities might influence a psychic in their mundane life. But, in a reading, their trust in spirit goes beyond those insecurities. Many psychics report feeling an inner strength during readings. Life outside that session is of no consequence. Ideally, it is all about the message.

Self-confidence is enlightening and uplifting for self. It is also a beacon of light and strength that helps motivate and support others. Confidence is not about being out-going. People can be quietly confident. An introspective personality may prefer to connect to people through a small, private practice. A psychic who is more outgoing might choose to give large public demonstrations. There are psychics on television, in magazines and on billboards. Others opt for low-key exposure. This has more to do with lifestyle balance and goals rather than confidence. In either setting, ego can be a factor.

Happiness and Satisfaction

There is a difference between being satisfied and being happy with a reading. It is not always possible to be happy because of the nature of the information. When a psychic provides enough specific detail in a reading you can be satisfied it is not a generic bundle of words. A reading might shine a light on your possible future or give hope, clarity, or useful guidance. There are many ways a reading can be beneficial. There is no guarantee of being happy with the information that comes through.

If the contents of a reading fall short of your desires or if a timeframe given is too long or too short, then you may be unhappy with the information, but that does not mean you are unhappy with the messenger.

If another psychic gives a similar message, then that is the energy surrounding you. It can be confronting. You might dismiss the reading. Whether you take on the message is up to you. It is absolutely your choice. If a psychic is upset, disappointed or feels personally rejected because you don’t accept their guidance categorically, perhaps they need to look at why they are doing this type of work.

A reading is not about unduly influencing someone or straight up telling them what to do. Interpretation needs to be objective. It is not appropriate for a psychic to allow a reading to be influenced by their own viewpoint or experience. It is about giving someone the tools, understanding, strength or information to make strong choices for themselves.

Whether it is under the spotlight or by secluded candlelit, ambience can set a mood of anticipation. However, a psychic’s energy and their method of communication and delivery, are also part of the atmosphere. If you feel comfortable with someone it can foster a positive psychic experience. When you are looking for direction and options in your life, I believe it is the psychic’s role to be of service – without ego.

Suzanne Newnham is an author, trance medium and health advocate (chronic pain). Her published works include Ethics of a Psychic Reading, numerous short stories and magazine articles. She is the co-author of two novellas. For full details on Suzanne’s books and activities go to: http://suzanne-newnham.com
The International Tarot Foundation Presents the CARTA Awards

The CARTA Awards were established in 2010 with the aim of recognizing excellence within the world of Cartomancy. Congratulations to the winners for 2015.

Honorary Winners of 2015

Lynn Araujo
For demonstrating compassion as well as embracing and serving as an inspiration to many people within the Tarot community.

Tarot Pink for Cancer
For spreading awareness throughout the world by the means of art and the heartfelt ensemble participation of its creators.

Robert Place
For his inspirational work as an author and an illustrator that has set an example to other creators.

Blue Angel Publishing
For producing publications with everlasting high and durable quality, not just domestically, but internationally.

We look forward to the 2016 CARTA Awards. For more information visit www.internationaltarotfoundation.com

The 2015 CARTA awards supported by Llewellyn.

These decks and more available at www.tarotopia.com.au